Roadwork Richard Bachman

Roadwork is a novel by American writer Stephen King, published in 1981 under the pseudonym Richard Bachman as a paperback original. It was collected in 1985 in the hardcover omnibus The Bachman Books, which is no longer in print. However, three of the four novels in that collection - Roadwork, The Long Walk, and The Running Man - have since been reprinted as standalone titles.

Roadwork Quotes by Richard Bachman - Goodreads

In this week's Dispatches from The Secret Library, Dr Oliver Tearle reads Richard Bachman's lesser-known novel, Roadwork Stephen King isn't your run-of-the-mill horror writer. Indeed, he resists the generic label - 'generic' both because it identifies him with one genre but also because it is blandly general and nondescript - and might be better seen...

Roadwork is different than anything Stephen King (well, Richard Bachman, to be precise) has written; it's more a character study than anything else. As King himself wrote in his "Why I Was Bachman" introduction to the first edition of The Bachman Books, "Roadwork is probably the worst of the lot, because it tries so hard to be good."
